Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1, 6 and 22-24 are allowed.
2. The prior art of record fails to disclose or suggest features recited in the amended claims.
3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The Independent claims describe a survey document defined using XML and is delivered to the client side and includes a DTD for validating questions and answers of the survey. Furthermore the data elements of the survey document are parsed into an array that contains a hash table (containing keys with values) that have cross-references defining associations among the questions and answers (see specification pg 8 paragraph 4 – pg 9, paragraph 1). The survey is executed in an applet in a browser on the client device. The prior art reference of Smith describes a survey suggesting that it could be described in a markup language such as XML with Java Script Applets for presentation. Furthermore Smith discloses the use of validation rules thereby suggesting the use of a DTD. Smith however fails to teach or suggest the use of a hash table convention where answers constitute keys with associated cross references to other arrays. The invention provides a significant advantage over the prior art by using a hash table by increasing the speed of processing related to table lookup and comparison tasks. Furthermore the invention allows the entire survey to be processed on the client device thereby reducing unnecessary server-side processing.

Therefore the reference fails to teach or suggest all the elements recited in the independent claims. Furthermore, the claimed feature would not have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention in view of the prior art of record. Because Smith fails to teach the features recited in the independent claims has described above. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
